

July 28, 2015

Streamlight, Inc.
Stinger HPL Rechargeable Flashlight
Overall Score: 4.36
www.streamlight.com

Tester 1 of 2
Tested by a member from California

Design 4
Performance 4
Ease of Use 3.5
Size 3.5
Quality 4.5
Durability 4.5
Storage 4
Versatility 3.5
Application 4
Comfort 4.5
Cleaning & Maintenance 4.5

Individual Score 4.09

The Stinger flashlight is of a high quality and very comfortable in my hand. The light is bright and highly effective, as well as very durable. I dropped it from a standing position several times onto concrete with no negative effect on the light. I also dropped it down concrete stairs, causing only minor cosmetic scratches on the metal surfaces. After researching the retail cost of the flashlight, I believe its quality exceeds its retail cost. The only negative comment I have about the light, and it is only a personal preference, is that the light activation button could be a little larger (to make it easier to locate without looking.)

Tester 2 of 2
Tested by a member from South Carolina

Design 4.5
Performance 4.5
Ease of Use 5
Size 4.4

Quality 5
Durability 5
Storage 4.5
Versatility 4.2
Convenience 4.4
Application 4.5
Comfort 4.6
Cleaning & Maintenance 5

Individual Score 4.63

The Stinger flashlight is well designed and very easy to use. The light has a good grip on the handle so when wet, it will stay in your hand. It is a bright light. The Streamlight is average in size and also lasts for quite a while after it is charged. It works well for this Officer because of its light weight and easy turn on. The light also has the ability to strobe so it would also be good for directing traffic. Storage is convenient. The two chargers provided make it convenient to charge at home or in your patrol vehicle. The Streamlight is a very sturdy light; after dropping it several times, it continued to work as normal. This light is better than other lights I've used in the past and it also seems to be very well made.